BUNKE RESIGNS PRESIDENCY

Dr. Harvey C. Bunke, president of Western since January, 1965, announced his resignation in March to accept a position as Director of Undergraduate Studies at Indiana University, Bloomington.

The resignation becomes effective Sept. 1.

If a new president is not named by Sept. 1, the Board of Trustees plans to name Dr. Charles J. Flora, academic dean, as acting president. Flora, a biologist who joined the faculty in 1957, has been academic dean since September, 1966.

In the search for a new president, the Board plans to work closely with a three-member faculty committee. Dr. Robert Lawyer, chairman of the Faculty Council, will serve as one of the committee members. Two others will be selected by the Board from a list of nominees prepared by the Council, the elected representative body of the faculty.

Dr. Bunke expressed regret at leaving Bellingham, but explained that Indiana offered him an opportunity he could not pass up.

In his new position, Dr. Bunke said he would have an opportunity to do the writing that he has not had time for because of the demands of the presidency.

In commenting on his two years as president at Western, Dr. Bunke said:

"Western is indeed one of the outstanding colleges in the nation. Its reputation is well deserved, both because of the high quality of the faculty and the vision of the Board of Trustees."

He said the presidency of a state college is a very demanding one because these colleges are undergoing rapid and dramatic change.

"They are in a period of transition from small single-purpose institutions to fairly large, multi-purpose ones," he said.

Dr. Bunke said he enjoyed his time as president and the opportunities to provide leadership in the development of new teaching and research concepts.

During the past several years, Western has received wide recognition from government and private agencies for its contributions to research, its pioneering work in teaching and its development of Fairhaven College.

SUMMER SESSION OFFERS VARIETY

Western's 1967 summer session will offer a variety of activities and special sessions ranging from battles in the War on Poverty to folk dancing under the Washington sky.

Some 101 high school students, from urban and rural depressed areas in the state, will be on campus this summer. They will be participating in Project Overcome, being conducted at Western for the third summer. Project Catch-Up, started last year, will again bring culturally disadvantaged American-Indian, Mexican-American and European-American junior high school students from Whatcom and Skagit Counties to the campus. Directed by Dr. Evelyn P. Mason, Project Catch-Up will provide the young students with instructional programs in language arts and quantitative skills.

A group of 60 exceptionally talented Washington high school juniors will be on campus from June 19 to July 28 to participate in a special institute for Giftedness and Creativity.

Dr. Wayne D. Lee of the Western faculty will direct a conference entitled "Developmental reading . . . in action in the sixties" from August 7 to 11. It is designed to aid school personnel to refine their skills in the teaching of developmental reading.

A Remedial Reading Institute will be offered to teachers of grades 3 through 9 and to administrators from Washington's western counties from June 19 to August 18. Dr. H. O. Beldin will direct the Institute which will train experienced teachers in the philosophy and techniques of remedial reading.

High school teachers will have the opportunity to participate in mathematics and physics institutes beginning June 19.

The Women's Physical Education Department will offer the fifth annual Northwest Folk Dance Workshop for intermediate and advanced dancers from August 7 to 12.

Creative gymnastics will be taught to elementary teachers and physical education instructors during a workshop from August 7 to 11. Sponsored by the Women's Physical Education Department, the workshop will be conducted by Mrs. Liselott Diem and Mrs. Irma Nikolai of West Germany.

Western's music and drama faculties also offer a wide range of activities during the summer, including a band workshop at Birch Bay and visits to the campus by outstanding performers.

The summer session is divided into two sessions. A six-week session is offered from June 19 to July 28 and a nine-week session is offered from June 19 to August 18.

Daily classes begin on the hour from 8 a.m. to 4 p.m. and evening classes begin at 7 p.m.

BILLINGS TO HEAD UPWARD BOUND

Dr. Thomas A. Billings, director of Western's Project Overcome, has been named to head the nationwide Upward Bound program of which Project Overcome is a part.

Dr. Billings was appointed by Sargent Shriver, director of the U.S. Office of Economic Opportunity. The appointment took effect April 15.

Dr. Billings has been granted a 21-month leave of absence by the Board of Trustees. He will direct Upward Bound in Washington, D.C.

The national Upward Bound project now operates on 227 college and university campuses. Western's Project Overcome, first funded by the OEO in 1965, was one of 17 pilot-demonstration projects and subsequently won national recognition as one of the most successful of the original programs.

The purpose of Upward Bound is to get American youngsters out of poverty by providing them with realistic access to higher education.

As of this summer, Western's Project Overcome will have 150 participants. It has been financed by three OEO grants totalling $310,583. The third and largest of the grants was made this year in the amount of $133,214.

Dr. Billings, an associate professor of education, came to Western as a lecturer in 1964. He is a native of Eugene, Ore., and received his doctorate from the University of Oregon in 1960. He earned his B.A. there in 1953.

EIGHT FROM WESTERN IN LEGISLATURE

Western was well-represented in the 1967 session of the Washington State Legislature.

Seven members of the Legislature and the House Clerk had direct ties with Western, four of them were graduates, three more had attended, and one is a member of the Board of Trustees.

Rep. David G. Sprague is a member of the Board of Trustees.

McBeath served as Chief Clerk in the 1967 session and Eldridge was speaker of the House.

HOUSE MOTHER WRITES OF HIGHLAND

A former Western house mother has published an account of her seven years at Highland Hall.

_Rocks in the Washer_, by Mrs. Rae K. Pritchard, is a non-fiction commentary of experiences and happenings she observed during her term in the hall. Exact names are not used, but those who lived in the hall will recognize the people involved in each experience.
The estimates are wild. But so is the experience. Western's students, in apparently large numbers, have experienced or continue to experience high-flying trips on LSD 25—lysergic acid diethylamide.

How many are involved and how frequent the trips remain unanswered. But the consensus seems to be that those who have used the potent consciousness-expanding drug number at least 700. The total student population is under 5,700.

Students are not alone in their flight from reality into the never-never land of hallucinogenic experience. It is generally accepted on campus that some members of the faculty, though their numbers are not known, also have taken the drug.

Accompanying the use of LSD, in fact but not of necessity, is the widespread use of marijuana on the campus. It is generally believed that its use is considerably wider than the use of LSD, with reliable estimates ranging from 10 to 25 per cent of the student body. Some of the faculty again are involved.

What's it all about?

In a capsule, it's about "inner understanding" and violations of public law. It's about Timothy Leary and Sidney Cohen. It's about college policy and newly-formulated state regulations.

In February, the college community was torn by conflict over the appearance of the self-proclaimed messiah of the LSD-cult—Dr. Timothy Leary, former Harvard psychologist.

Invited to Western by the Associated Students, his impending appearance stirred the fires of controversy over free speech, freedom to use drugs and freedom to hear unpopular views.

After several days of deliberation and concern, the college administration adhered to its written speaker policy which declares: "Any faculty or recognized student group may invite to the campus any speaker the group would like to have, subject to considerations of common decency and the state law." (Italics in policy.)

The policy goes further and so did the administration. The policy notes that "in exceptional cases, the President may at his discretion limit the audience to the group which issued the invitation or direct that a tenured member of the faculty preside over the meeting. The President may take steps to have views other than those of an invited speaker represented at a given meeting ..."

The administration called upon Dr. Sidney Cohen, UCLA psychiatrist, to share the platform with Leary. The audience was limited to students and faculty who jammed the 1,200-seat auditorium.

Dr. Laurence Brewster of Western's Speech Department was selected to referee the performance and to make the introductions.

Little refereeing was needed. The differences between "Dr. Love," as the Collegian referred to Leary, and "Dr. No," again a Collegian moniker, were more personal than professional.

While Leary urged everyone to "turn on, tune in and drop out," Cohen suggested that there were inherent dangers in the use of psychedelic drugs, but he did not flatly condemn them.

Neither did the Washington Legislature. But the Legislature did give its approval, after extensive hearings, to House Bill 353 which grants authority to the State Pharmacy Board to regulate distribution of hallucinogenic
One of the most discussed and least understood issues at Western and on other campuses in recent months has been the growing use of the hallucinogenic drug LSD-25. Here is an in-depth look at the drug, its followers and its implications at Western.

Drugs and which allows their "use in the course of a bona fide research program."

The U.S. Food and Drug Administration, according to Dr. Edward Neuzil, Western chemistry professor, says that "you may not traffic or sell or distribute the drug (LSD) but you may possess it and use it."

Obviously, it's nearly impossible, except by manufacturing LSD yourself, to use the drug without buying it. Traffic is fairly heavy at Western. Flights are usually launched from Seattle or Vancouver according to student users of the drug.

LSD is purchased for about $3 a capsule (sugar cubes are out) in Seattle and resold in Bellingham, usually on Fridays, for $4 to $5 a capsule. One capsule contains on the average, 300 micrograms of the substance.

Why shell out $5 for a capsule of LSD?

One student summed up his feelings: "I took it because I didn't care for peyote." He explained he had taken peyote as early as 1963, when he was 19, and then moved on to LSD "to continue an inner exploration."

The student added: "Each trip is different, you find out something new. It's primarily a reinforcement of some of the values that I hold, a very strong reinforcement."

Should others take LSD? "Nobody should take it. If you want to, fine, but you should know what you're getting into. Each trip is different."

How different? "I've had bad experiences, very paranoid, very frightening."

Dr. David Clarke, psychologist and director of the Seattle Public School System's Guidance and Remediation Center, says that the trips "produce a psychosis, an insanity, whether it be permanent or temporary."

He spoke on a televised program of one youngster who was not able to come off a trip and who remains in a state of psychosis.

Such dangers are not totally ignored. One Western student said he had wanted to take LSD sometimes but, "usually I'm scared of it."

He explained that "there was nothing to do so I wanted to try LSD."

Failing in his efforts to take a trip because he overly diluted the LSD, he admitted to regular use of marijuana. As with the LSD, most of Bellingham's supply comes from Seattle, though it is believed that the supply there is mostly brought in from San Francisco, home of the psychedelic center of Haight-Ashbury.

The student who failed to get launched on his trip also reported that some students try to encourage him to use LSD. "But I just don't think I have to get that many kicks on anything."

He attributes some values to the drug, explaining that one close friend "had suicidal tendencies before he started taking acid (LSD). He found this little game of picking up hints from music, poetry and started to see a reason to live."

What kind of students are using LSD and marijuana?

Your next door neighbor might be the example. There is no type. It's not just the hippies, though proportionally it is likely that more of the hippies use the drugs than do students among the non-hippie groups on campus.

Nonetheless, as several students explained, LSD and marijuana use is general across the campus. Many do not speak openly of their use, but they, just as much as the talkative hippies, are, as one student said, "escaping from the world and it's the first time we can escape without physical damage."

"Before LSD," he added, "there was always some kind of penalty involved, such as a hangover."

The college hasn't stood by wondering what to do. One student was dismissed from school during fall quarter after using LSD. Following the furor which erupted around the case, a student-faculty committee worked out a college policy on drugs which has been approved by the Board of Trustees.

The policy forbids possession, manufacture, sale or inducement to use LSD on college property, in college residence halls, or college inspected off-campus houses or at college sponsored functions. If the prohibitions are violated the student "becomes subject to severe disciplinary action."

The college drug policy also notes that "students should have full access to all reliable information concerning drug usage."

To this end, no problems arose when panel discussions on the drug were conducted on campus this year nor when a student-faculty committee fall quarter selected the book LSD: The Consciousness-Expanding Drug as the book of the quarter.

What's in store for the future?

Dr. Leary, who declares, "society is an insane anthill," claims that "each month hundreds of thousands more people are finding that they have to drop out of American culture. I know that within 15 years LSD and marijuana will be just as common as the Bible is today."

Not everyone agrees. Dr. Clarke cautiously suggests that "perhaps LSD will become a useful tool" and Dr. Neuzil says, "we must not be led to the point to condemn LSD entirely... but it's certainly not something that the mob can go out and use."

How do the students react?

One student sums it up, "I don't see where they get the notion they can tell a person what they can or can't do in this respect. It seems so insane."
LEGISLATIVE SUMMARY

The 1967 session of the Washington Legislature granted Western and the two other state colleges authority to grant the Bachelor of Science degree.

The Legislature also provided for staggered terms for the trustees of the three colleges so that no more than two of the five members of each board will go off the board in a given year.

A fourth state college was authorized by the Legislature with the specification that it be located within a 10-mile radius of Olympia.

In authorizing the new institution, which will be named by its board of trustees, the Legislature provided a clarifying amendment to protect the three existing state colleges from losing revenue to the new institution.

The clarifying amendment provides that fund revenues which are used to pay off bond issues of the three existing colleges will belong only to them until the bonds are redeemed.

Although hearings were held by the Higher Education Committees of both the House and the Senate, there was not enough support for legislation to change the names of the colleges to universities.

The name change was supported by Western and Central and endorsed by Eastern.

Western also sought, but was denied, authorization to grant doctorate degrees. The bill was introduced late in the session and there was not sufficient time for the Legislature to become aware of the need for it. The proposal was heard only in the Senate.

The Legislature established an oceanographic commission and administrative mechanisms to facilitate marine activities and research. The legislation enables Western and all other state institutions of higher education to participate in a growing program to increase marine resources.

The bill was of particular importance to Western because of the location and excellent faculty the college has in the fields of marine biology and related areas.

WESTERN IN 'VITALITY' STUDY

Western is one of 20 institutions, ranging from 1,500 to 40,000 in enrollment, being examined in a study of institutional vitality.

The Charles F. Kettering Foundation is funding the year and a half study by the Institute of Higher Education, Teachers College, Columbia University.

Dr. R. D. Brown, chairman of the English department, has been named to replace Hitchman in the capacity of assistant academic dean.

Leggett, who visited the campus in February, explained that he was especially interested in the development of Fairhaven College and said that the study is interested in new curricula, expansion of the purpose or philosophy of the institutions under study and new techniques or use of media on the various campuses.

Commenting on his findings here, Hefferlin said he was favorably impressed by the "lack of intra-institutional warfare and by a good deal of participation by everyone on a variety of issues."

He also noted that "you do not have a 'second class' mentality here that is typical of many former normal schools."

The findings of the study will be published this summer.

LEGGETT IS COMMENCEMENT SPEAKER

Dr. Glenn H. Leggett, president of Grinnell College, Grinnell, Iowa, will be the featured speaker at the June 9 commencement exercises.

Some 600 students are expected to participate in the exercises which begin at 10 a.m. in Carver Gymnasium.

He went to the University of Washington before assuming the presidency of Grinnell on July 12, 1965.

Dr. Leggett served as provost at the University of Washington as an associate professor of English in 1952 and was promoted to special assistant to the president in 1959. In 1961 he was named vice provost and in 1963 became provost.

200 USE PLACEMENT OFFICE SERVICE

Nearly 200 business and industrial organizations took advantage of the services of Western's Business and Government Placement Office in its first year of operation.

The office, which was established in September, 1965, reported that 65 per cent of the participating students in 1965-66 who told of job acceptances obtained their initial contacts through campus interviews or job notifications from the Placement Office.

The office was specifically created to serve Western's arts and science majors and about 45 per cent of the students receiving degrees in these areas during the 1965-66 academic year registered with the Placement Office.

The Placement Office indicated that 48 organizations sent representatives to Western to conduct interviews. Contacts were made with another 150 organizations by letter, telephone and personal visits.

HITCHMAN, BROWN NAMED DEANS

Dr. James H. Hitchman, assistant academic dean, has been named dean of students at Western, replacing Dr. Merle S. Kuder, dean of students for three decades.

Dr. R. D. Brown, chairman of the English department, has been named to replace Hitchman in the capacity of associate academic dean.

Dr. Kuder has resumed his teaching role as a professor of education and psychology.

MELLON FELLOWSHIP AWARDED ROE

Dr. Alfred L. Roe, associate professor of history, has been awarded an $8,500 Andrew Mellon Postdoctoral Fellowship at the University of Pittsburgh.

Dr. Roe, who came to Western in 1962, will take a leave of absence to do research on banking in the late 19th and early 20th century.

The fellowship is one of six or seven awarded annually and runs from Sept. 1 to Aug. 1, 1968.
HARWOOD NAMED FAIRHAVEN DEAN

Dr. Charles W. Harwood, chairman of the Psychology Department, was named in December to serve as dean of Fairhaven College, Western’s first satellite college.

Fairhaven is scheduled to open in the fall of 1968 with a maximum enrollment of 600 students. It will be semi-autonomous and separate from the main campus. Students will have the advantages of a small college with the use of the facilities of a larger campus.

Harwood, 42, came to Western in 1953 after earning his doctorate at the University of Washington. In February, 1961, he was named chairman of the Psychology Department.

He lectured at Otago University in Dunedin, New Zealand, from March, 1966, until last fall under a Fulbright Award from the U.S. State Department.

Harwood received his Bachelor of Science degree from the U. of W. in 1947 and his master’s from there in 1950.

He served as an instructor in the U.W. Extension School during the 1951-52 academic year and in the summer of 1952. In 1952-53, he served as an instructor at Oregon State University and in the summer of 1953 at the University of Alberta.

PEAK NAMED FOR GEOLOGY PROFESSOR

An 8,000 foot peak on the northern international border has been named after Dr. Calder Bressler, a Western geology professor who died on Mount Rainier in 1959.

Mount Bressler is one of the major peaks in the Juneau icefield and is located on the border between Alaska and Canada.

The name was approved by the United States Board of Geographic Names.

Dr. Calder’s widow, Elizabeth, and two sons, Hartwell, 16, and Edmund, 13, live in Bellingham.

VERNON, BULTMANN TO TEACH OVERSEAS

Two Western professors, Dr. Manfred Vernon, Political Science, and Dr. William Bultmann, History, are among five Northwest educators chosen to teach overseas in 1968.

Dr. Bultmann will teach in London in the spring and Dr. Vernon will teach in France in the summer.

They are participating in the Study Abroad program of the Northwest Inter-Institutional Council.

Western students, beginning this summer, may earn residence credits for study in the program.

Other Northwest colleges subscribing to the Study Abroad program include Central Washington State College, the University of Montana, Oregon State University, and Portland State College.

FIRST ALUMNI COLLEGE PLANNED

The Alumni Association will conduct a five-day Alumni College on campus from July 30 to August 3.

The non-credit conference will be based on the theme, “A Changing College in a Changing World.” It is being presented to satisfy the need to understand rapid and dramatic changes that affect everyone’s everyday lives, to examine the role of the college as a vital institution in a changing world, to evaluate the place of the Alumni Association in college affairs and to provide an opportunity for study in a relaxed, undisturbed setting.

The faculty for the college includes William J. Dittrich, assistant professor of physics; Dr. F. Richard Feringer, director of continuing studies; Dr. Charles J. Flora, academic dean; Harold A. Goltz, director of campus planning and development; Dr. Charles Harwood, dean of Fairhaven College; Dr. Gerald F. Kraft, associate professor of biology; Dr. Peter Mazur, associate professor of sociology-anthropology; Dr. James G. McAree, associate professor of history; Dr. J. Alan Ross, dean of graduate studies; Dr. Herbert C. Taylor, dean of research, and Dr. Paul Woodring, editor-at-large of Saturday Review and distinguished service professor.

The cost of participation is $75 per person or $125 per couple. The cost includes conferences and materials, rooms and meals. Lunches and dinners, conferences and materials are available for $35 per person.

Enrollment will be limited to the first 200 persons to pay the fees or reserve a space by a $10 deposit.

Participants are to arrive on campus Sunday afternoon, July 30. An informal social hour is planned that evening and the Alumni College program begins Monday morning, July 31. The college will conclude with lunch on Thursday, August 3.

The program will include four presentations on population and environment and four on the college itself. Further information is available from the Alumni Office.

The alumni program committee includes Art Runstrand and Miss Arta Lawrence, Bellingham, co-chairmen; Fred Boede, Seattle; George Fallis, Tacoma; Morton Gronseth, Centralia; Bernice Hall, Bellingham; Loren Rankin, Seattle, and Hans Lorentzen, Bellingham.

‘GRAD SYSTEM’ AIDS ALUMS

Grads of Western who are seeking positions other than in the teaching field now have an opportunity to place their qualifications before employers from coast to coast with computer speed and no cost.

Corrine Hamilton, director of Western’s Business and Government Placement Office, said that the new service, known as the GRAD system, enables alumni who are seeking employment to fill out only one four-page resume form.

The completed form is sent to the placement office of the institution from which the alum was graduated and from there is sent to the Data Center of the College Placement Council in Bethlehem, Pa., for distribution to prospective employers.

At the Data Center, each resume is analyzed in terms of present employment and previous experience and 21 key factors are extracted and entered into an electronic file. The original resume is microfilmed to be retrieved almost immediately upon receipt of an employer order.

Special provisions have been programmed into the GRAD System to prevent the applicant's current employer and from there is sent to the Data Center of the College Placement Council in Bethlehem, Pa., for distribution to prospective employers.

The system is of value only to those seeking positions with business, industry or government agencies. All participants must work through their college placement offices.

ALUMNI PRESIDENT REPORTS

(The following letter was written by Alumni President Fred Boede and is addressed to alumni, faculty and friends of Western Washington State College.)

As the year draws to a close I would like to review some of the present activities of the Alumni Association as well as outline some of our objectives.

As always, one of our primary objectives is to establish better lines of communication between alumni and the college and also between alumni and the Alumni Association. This is not as easily done as it might seem. The alumni files have always included many names and addresses, but due to a lack of secretarial help and adequate funds these files have been out of date for several years.

Many alums change addresses often and for some reason think the Alumni Association will be able to keep track of them. This is not always possible. Many alumni publications are sent by second class mail and are not always forwarded to a new address. At the present time many people are involved in bringing the files up to date as rapidly as possible, but this project cannot be completed in a short time.

It is my hope that our efforts are already evident and that we have made a definite step toward better communications.

A second objective of the Alumni Board is to provide increased alumni activities. In the past we have organized and sponsored various Homecoming activities, but this has been largely our only function.

Following the renewal of our Spring Banquet last year the Board felt that with an adequate budget we would be in a position to renew other activities as well as provide new ones. Last June, the membership committee set a financial goal of $5,000 and more than 10,000 letters were sent requesting financial support through membership.

More than 300 persons responded by becoming paid members which contributed approximately $1,500 to our treasury. The exact figure will not be known until the end of our fiscal year in June. As this sum is considerably short of our goal the Alumni Board has been forced to cut back on its thinking and to pursue only those new programs which are partially self supporting.

One such project was our athletic booster banquet which was held in Kent on Feb. 20. After all expenses were paid we were able to contribute $50 toward the purchase of blue blazers for Western's traveling athletic teams.

At the present time we are engaged in sponsoring Western's first "Alumni College" which will be held from July 30 to August 3. During this time the Alumni Association and the college will welcome back participants to relax and learn under the theme of "A Changing College in a Changing World." An outstanding program is being planned and it is my hope that this event will be well attended.

Our annual Spring Banquet is scheduled for June 3 at which time we will honor the classes of 1917 and 1942. Again, one of our major problems is locating the graduates of these classes. Any help in this area I'm sure would be greatly appreciated by Mrs. Bernice Hall, our committee chairman. Mrs. Hall may be contacted by writing the Alumni Office.

A part of the program will consist of the installation of our newly-elected board members.

The remaining project which is under discussion is a banquet to honor past ASB officers. Currently we are working jointly with Western's ASB officers to determine if there is sufficient interest to hold such a dinner. If interest is great enough such a banquet could either be held this spring or early this fall.

Finally, the key to the number of alumni activities we can provide lies in the amount of money we can gather through paid memberships and donations.

We are committed to pay a part of the salary of our alumni coordinator and any activities, scholarships or forms of communication which we provide must come from monies left after this expense is paid.

Presently we are working on some items which we hope will make it more appealing to join the Alumni Association. These should be ready by the beginning of our 1967 membership drive which begins this spring and I sincerely hope that you will take the time and interest to become a paid member of our association.

RICHARDSON WINS SALSGIVER AWARD

Western's Steve Richardson, a junior from Renton, was awarded the Gerald "Slats" Salsgiver Award by the Western Booster Club in February.

The scrappy little athlete also was named to the Little All-American defensive team this year by the National Association of Intercollegiate Athletics.

In addition, his football teammates voted him the Inspirational and Most Valuable Player trophies.

For the past three years he has been named all-conference on both the offensive and defensive teams and this year he also was on the NAIA all-star team.

In 1964, he also was named to the all-conference baseball team.

CLASS NOTES

'21 Mrs. Emery F. (Clara M. Willard) Tobin who with her husband founded Alaska Sportsman magazine has retired from operation of the Alaska Specialties Shop in Ketchikan, Alaska, and returned to Willard, Wa., with her husband.

'22 Mrs. Hortense (Yule) Harrington is president of the New Jersey chapter of the National Association of Teachers of Singing.
Dr. Austin D. Bond has retired from his position in the Science Education Department of East Carolina College, Greenville, N.C.

Monford Orloff, who transferred from Western to Stanford University in 1936, has been named a trustee of Reed College, Portland, Ore. He also is chief executive officer and chairman of the board of Evans Products Co., Portland.

Jean A. McCarter is now on duty at a forward U.S. Air Force combat base in Southeast Asia. He is a chief warrant officer.

Bob "Pink" Atkinson has been named an assistant football coach at the University of Montana, Missoula.

Howard Mickey (M.Ed. '58) is on leave of absence from the Puyallup Public Schools to participate in the Mott Foundation Inter-University Clinical Preparation Program for Educational Leadership in Flint, Mich.

Mrs. Phungohai Sivindavanada of Thailand has been named principal of the Dhoburi Teacher Training School at Bangkok, Thailand.

William H. Rose is a captain in the U.S. Air Force and is stationed at Westover Air Force Base, Mass.

Mrs. Janice (Lee) Peck is a second grade teacher at the Meredyth Hill Elementary School in the Edmonds School District No. 15.

Mrs. Marvin (Rosalie Weidenbach) L'Heureux is teaching in the Modesto, Calif., school system.

Mrs. W. F. (Eleanor Ann) Fortson is principal of the Stanwood Elementary School, Dist. 401, Stanwood, Wash.

Mrs. Paul J. (Nancy Blox) Wallor is living in Tacoma where her husband teaches and coaches football and tennis at the University of Puget Sound.

Mrs. Jane W. (Bill) Siverson is teaching at Mirror Lake Elementary School, Federal Way, Wash.

Mrs. Kathryn (Hodde) Flaten is teaching in Boise, Idaho.

Dr. John J. Kohfeld is employed at United Technical Center, Sunnyvale, Calif.

Mrs. Lyla V. (Bonney) Dahlager is teaching at Wenatchee Valley College.

Joel Carlson, a mathematics teacher at Everett Junior College, has been named chairman of an Ad Hoc Committee on Math at Everett College and Technical School of the National Council of Teachers of Mathematics, a department of the National Education Association.

Ken Merager taught this year at the new Nike site school and research cluster in Kent, Wash.

John John Elsbree has been assigned to Chemical and Engineering News' central office in Washington, D.C., to work on features.

Mrs. Virginia (Wright) Vanderhyde is serving as girls' juvenile parole counselor for Skagit, Whatcom, Island and San Juan counties.

Stephen R. Buss is a captain in the Air Force stationed at Fortuna Air Force Station, N.D., where he is a member of a base advisory organization for matters pertaining to the welfare of junior officers.

Clarence P. Wickman, a first lieutenant in the U.S. Air Force, has been awarded the U.S. Air Force Commendation Medal at Sheppard Air Force Base, Texas, for meritorious service as an aircraft maintenance officer.

Fred K. Ross has been awarded a $1,500 Du Pont Postgraduate Teaching Assistant Award in addition to the stipend he receives from the University of Illinois Department of Chemistry and Chemical Engineering.

Peacock was awarded a Master of Arts degree by the University of Iowa on Feb. 4.

Donald D. Porter, a first lieutenant in the U.S. Air Force, has joined the Caribou airlift team in Vietnam.

Felix F. Billingsley has been commissioned a second lieutenant in the U.S. Air Force and assigned to Randolph Air Force Base, Texas, for training and duty.

SPORTS ROUNDUP

A veteran wrestler and a fledgling swimmer, both of whom formed the nucleus of their respective teams during the past winter, put Western's name on the map with standout performances in national competition in March.

Jim Chapman, a four-year letter winner and captain of this year's Viking wrestling team, placed third in the National Association of Inter-collegiate Athletics wrestling tournament at Lock Haven, Pa. Chapman dropped a one-point decision in the quarter-finals and went the rest of the way without a defeat.

Bill Lingley, freshman swim star from Bellevue, traveled to Buffalo, New York for the NAIA swim championships and placed in both events he entered.

The freestyle specialist took seventh in the 500-yard freestyle and a ninth in the 1,650-yard freestyle event. His time of 19:12 in the longer race was some 54 seconds better than his previous best time.

A large question mark confronts new head baseball coach Fred Emerson as the 1967 baseball season approaches its beginning.

At press time Emerson, boasted of what could be a potent pitching staff but was concerned over lack of depth in the infield.

"Right now we just don't know how tough it will be. We have the nucleus of a good pitching staff but don't have very good depth."

Four returning lettermen greeted tennis coach Don Wiseman when practice started for the 1967 season, but an influx of talent is expected to make the veterans work to regain their old positions.

Back from last year's third place Evergreen conference finishers are John Layton, Mark Pearlman, Mike Johnson and Roger Fisher. Newcomers include Steve Reibe, a transfer from Everett Jr. College, Doug Snow, Randy Roberts and Jay Taylor.

The wet dark days that have submerged Bellingham in early spring have been anything but conducive to producing collegiate track stars. Nevertheless, Western's award-winning teacher-coach, Stan LeProtti, is optimistic in the face of nature's belligerence.
Dr. Paul Woodring, editor-at-large for Saturday Review and Distinguished Professor at Western, will join with 10 other faculty members in presenting the first Alumni College on the Western campus during the summer session.

Woodring will deal with "Trends in Higher Education and Their Impact on Western" during the Alumni College which runs from July 30 to August 3.

The Alumni Association is sponsoring a program of class meetings, campus tours and other events which will culminate in a reception and banquet at the Viking Commons.

Honored guests will be graduates of the classes of 1917 and other Golden Year graduates, 1942, 1957, and faculty emeriti.

Reservations must be made with the Alumni Office by May 20. Inquiries should be directed to the Alumni Office, Western Washington State College, Bellingham, Washington 98225.
