Winter 1997

Window on Western, 1996-1997, Volume 03, Issue 02

Kathy Sheehan
Western Washington University
Alumni and Public Information Offices, Western Washington University

Follow this and additional works at: https://cedar.wwu.edu/window_on_western Part of the Higher Education Commons

Recommended Citation
https://cedar.wwu.edu/window_on_western/5

This Issue is brought to you for free and open access by the Western Publications at Western CEDAR. It has been accepted for inclusion in Window on Western by an authorized administrator of Western CEDAR. For more information, please contact westerncedar@wwu.edu.
Life imitates art

When the Western Gallery exhibited the innovative work of Roger Shimomura this fall, Gallery Director Sarah Clark-Langager called on faculty from the anthropology and history departments, as well as art specialists on and off campus, to lead the Wednesday gallery tours.

"I rarely, rarely call upon art professors," Clark-Langager said. "Not that art professors have nothing to say." They certainly do.

It's just that "I wanted people to understand that art has a context," she said.

The popular exhibitions at the gallery are just one way Western Washington University integrates the arts and other cultural activities into campus life and throughout the community.

"What we try to do is have the art connect with other disciplines on campus," Clark-Langager said. "Art is not an isolated discipline, and art is not just something you put on your mantle for decorative purposes. Art interconnects with life."

Whether it's a student-produced musical or the hundreds of Western alumni making names for themselves as artists, performers and lecturers, Western has a rich tradition of providing intellectual and creative experiences.

Campus lectures often have standing-room-only crowds, and many of the theater and musical performances by faculty, students and international artists are sold out in advance.

The outdoor sculpture collection, nearly 40 years old, is nationally known and features major international, national and regional artists who actively engage their audience.

John Zylstra ('73 and '83), instructional technician for the art department, says the collection is a unique Western contribution to its students and the Bellingham community.

"You don't usually get to see work of this caliber out in the open," said Zylstra, whose own outdoor sculptures are currently on display outside the Puylapulup Library and in Woodinville.

A list of successful alumni engaged in artistic endeavors could fill a book and is evidence of the quality programs Western offers.

Art exhibitions, musical and voice performances, cultural presentations and other offerings on campus are listed in every issue of Window on Western. They include:

- A Jan. 14 lecture by sports psychologist Ralph Vernacchia who will share his research and observations on winning Olympic athletes.
- The nationally known sculptures, paintings and drawings of artist Mel Chin in the Western Gallery Jan. 27 through Mar. 15.
- A Theatre Arts performance of "Arcadia," the Tony-nominated comedy of academic manners, in March.
- A Mar. 21 presentation by Mummenschanz, the magical mimes-in-disguise trio from Switzerland who are on their farewell tour.
- Lectures in April by renowned wildlife researcher Jane Goodall and ethnobotanist Mark Plotkin.
- During the fall quarter the university scheduled lectures by Coretta Scott King and Linda Wertheimer, a concert by the Mingus Big Band and performances of Betrayal and Tartuffe.
- The nationally known sculptures, paintings and drawings of artist Mel Chin in the Western Gallery Jan. 27 through Mar. 15.

Strengthening Western's reputation as a leading center for the arts and cultural activities is a principal goal of the Campaign for Western. The campaign targets raising $2 million in new private support — primarily in the form of endowments — to support arts-related programs.

As a hub for fine and performing arts exhibits and productions, distinguished lectures and a world-renown outdoor sculpture collection, Western fosters a stimulating and enriching environment that reaches beyond the classroom.

While nurturing the kind of creative expression essential to a progressive university, the Campaign for Western will provide much needed funding stability.

Gifts may be designated to support programs such as special exhibits at the Western Gallery, the Performing Arts Center Series, Summer Stock, the outdoor sculpture collection, campus lectures, faculty speakers series, and student productions on the college and departmental level.

The Campaign for Western has a goal of raising $18 million for five key initiatives by Dec. 31. In addition to the arts, the campaign supports teaching enrichment, scholarships, international programs and on-going annual support.

For information on the Campaign for Western and how you can support artistic and cultural programs at Western, call the Western Foundation at (360) 650-3027.
Contents
Campus Connections .......................... 3
Students are on the cutting edge of scientific, music and athletic advancements.
Investments in Excellence .................... 4
An alumna donates waterfront property to the Shannons Point
Accent on Alumni ............................. 5
Meet fragrance and flavor executive Horst-Otto Gerberding and see the hordes who celebrated Homecoming in October.
Class Note & Tributes ........................ 6-7
Calendar of Events ............................ 8

Big White Ski Weekend
Join fellow alumni at Big White in Kelowna, B.C., Jan. 17-19. Package tour includes:
• Round-trip motorcoach transportation from Bellingham and daily mountain shuttle
• 2 nights at the Holiday Inn; 2 breakfasts
• 2 lift passes to Big White
$179 pp based on quad occupancy (two beds)
$197 pp based on double occupancy
Call the Alumni House, (800) 676-6885 or (360) 650-3533, by Dec. 13

Alumni Board of Directors
Officers
Ray Foster, ’84, Bellingham; President; Lyle Morse, ’70, Olympia; President-Elect; Mark Hasted, ’83, Payette; Immediate Past President; Tony Larson, ’86, Bellingham, Treasurer.
Executives-at-Large
Allan Duhr, ’83, Everett; Jon Sitkin, ’94, Bellingham; Karen Hallford, ’69, Bellingham; Seth Cooley, ’67, Samoa Island; Solveig Vinje, ’65, Everett.
Board Members
Martin Chorba, ’66 & ’75, Bellingham; Ken Cax, ’85, Bellingham;
Jim Ferguson, ’84, Woodinville; Joyce Gillie, ’46 & ’56, Olympia; Kelly Gayle, ’91, Redmond; Michele Mattix, ’72, Issaquah; David Moore, ’64, Mount Vernon; Lori Riffe, ’91, Seattle; Bart Stilstroch, ’76, Seattle; Larry Tayler, ’72, Seattle; Marv Toland, ’83, Richland; Bessie Toon, ’79, Ferndale; Reed Zulauf, ’83, Payette.
Regional Coordinators
Grant Boettcher, Raleigh, N.C.; Laura Crook, Juneau, AK; Crystal Nygard, Anchorage, AK; Bernie Pulver, San Francisco Bay Area; Susan Neighbors, Santa Barbara, CAL.; Barbara Snow, Phoenix, AZ; Tobbi Keating, Las Vegas, NV; Patricia Swenson, Portland/Vancouver; Dean Wilson, Southern California; Tim Mackinnon, Honolulu; Tanya Eichhanger, Hawaii; Charles Odell, Washington, D.C.; Jack Stark, Shelton; Chet Ullin, Ketchikan Peninsula; Frank Williams, Australia; Patrick Lovell, Tokyo, Japan.

WINOW ON WESTERN
Is published three times a year by the Alumni Office and the Public Information Office.
Editor
Kathy D. Sheehan
Production
Western Washington University
Publishing Services
Western Washington University is committed to assuring that all programs and activities are readily accessible to all eligible people without regard to race, color, religion, national origin, sex, age, disability, marital status, sexual orientation, Vietnam era or disabled veteran status.

Briefly
FRESHMAN CLASS IS LARGEST EVER
Western’s student population has grown nearly 3 percent from 1995, with a record-setting freshman class of 2,082 and 1,076 undergraduate transfer students. Total enrollment for fall was 11,039.
The freshman class includes six National Merit finalists, nine Washington scholars and 14 recipients of the Washington Award for Vocational Excellence. Average high school GPA for the freshman students is 3.44.

BELLINGHAM REVIEW SPONSORS WRITING AWARDS
The Bellingham Review, an English department publication, is seeking entries for its Annie Dillard Award for Nonfiction and the Tobias Wolff Award for Fiction.
Previously unpublished essays, stories and book chapters are eligible. First prize in each competition is $500. Second prize is $250, and third prize is $100.
No entries will be accepted before Jan. 2 or after Mar. 1. For details, contact Robin Hemley, (360) 650-3236.

HAGGARD HALL IS GUTTED
With the opening of the new Science, Math and Technology Education building this fall, work immediately began on renovating the old science building, Haggard Hall.
It will become part of Wilson Library. Already, a new library circulation desk has been constructed on the ground level.
The interior of Haggard Hall is being completely renovated, and the planetarium is closed.

ARCO GIFT LAUNCHES VISITING SCHOLAR PROGRAM
A $50,000 gift from the ARCO Foundation to the Campaign for Western will help launch a visiting scholar program at Western. After a national search, the ARCO Scholar is expected to come to the university for the 1997-98 academic year to concentrate on enhancing curriculum in science, math and technology education for K-12 teachers.

TEACHER TRAINING GETS BOOST WITH ENDOwMENT
Bellingham civic leaders Herbert and Billie Ershig have donated $100,000 to the Campaign for Western to endow a teacher training enrichment fund at Western Washington University’s Wooding College of Education.
Herbert Ershig’s mother received her teaching certification in 1920 from Western’s predecessor institution, Bellingham Normal School. He attended the Campus School when it operated at Western, benefiting from the school’s “quality and its innovative programs,” he said.
Herbert Ershig is chairman of the Board of Ershigs, Inc., a plastics design and fabrication company which provides employment to Western students and has hired many of its engineering technology and business graduates.

THREE ADDED TO ATHLETIC HALL OF FAME
An Olympics racewalker, the school’s first four-year football letter winner and a soccer coach whose winning streak lasted more than two years are the newest members of Western’s Athletic Hall of Fame.
They are Allen James (‘87); Chet Ullin (’37) and former women’s soccer coach Dominick Garquile (’61).
James, regarded as the nation’s top race walker, placed 24th in the 50-kilometer race walk at the 1996 Summer Olympics in Atlanta. Ullin, who has also received the Alumni Association Board of Directors’ Distinguished Service Award, started 28 of 29 football games from 1933 to 1936 as right guard.
Garquile, who coached Western’s women’s soccer from 1981 to 1990, was named district Coach of the Year in 1984 and Northwest Collegiate Conference Coach of the Year in 1983.

STUDENTS SET RECORD FOR VOLUNTEERISM
Nearly 5,000 Western students set a new record for community service during the last school year. Under the Volunteer Community Service Program, 4,974 students contributed 694,444 hours of service to the campus and local community.

Write to us! Got a compliment, suggestion or idea? We want to hear from you. Address your Letters to the Editor to: Window on Western, Western Washington University, Bellingham, WA 98225-9045. Or you may contact the Alumni Office via e-mail at alumni@wwu.edu
Campus Connections

A harmonic convergence with pianos

Maintaining dozens of aging pianos owned by the Music Department was a struggle until manufacturer Yamaha and local dealer Northwest Keyboards brought harmony, loaning the department 10 new instruments in the summer of 1994.

The gift, which has been renewed each year since, is one of several recent donations to the university to enhance and enrich the quality of offerings from the music, theatre and art departments.

This year, Yamaha and Northwest Keyboards agreed to loan Western at least 14 new pianos, including full grands, digital keyboards and a "silent piano" for use with headphones.

The loaned instruments will be sold in June, with the Music Department receiving a percentage of the sales price as a credit on the future purchase of pianos.

Northwest Keyboards co-owner Ken Swanson, who still has a few of the used pianos for sale, said he was "thrilled to do it."

Students and faculty were given the first opportunity to purchase the one-year-old instruments. Alumni and others are also eligible to purchase the instruments at "quite a bit below retail," Swanson said.

The program is on a year-to-year basis, Swanson said, because "the key to success, quite frankly, is our ability to sell the pianos at the end of the loan period. We were able to do that last year, and I have every confidence it will happen again."

The Western Foundation, the university's fund-raising arm, calculates the value of the loaned instruments at about $100,000 a year. Music department chairman David Wallace believes the educational value of the program, which Yamaha sponsors throughout the United States, is beyond calculation.

"One example of what this has meant to our music students," Wallace said, "is a piano performance major who turned down a full scholarship to the Eastman School in Rochester to stay at Western."

Swanson is a Portland native who studied music in Chicago, moved to Longview, then to Bellingham in 1988 to purchase his business. "With Yamaha's support," he said, "I'm able to enhance what I quickly learned was an outstanding music program at Western."

Another recent gift that will benefit cultural activities and the arts came from former art education teacher and community leader J. Ruth Kelsey.

Kelsey gave $50,000 earlier this year to expand funds she established in 1984 and 1990 to support art scholarships and to provide art materials. Last year, at age 90, she was honored at the opening of a Viking Union exhibit of paintings she had done between 1939 and '41 of Nez Perce Indians. The works are now part of the Indian heritage collection on the Colville Reservation.

Basketball teams shoot to win

Normally, talking about three Cs in a college atmosphere is talking about being average, about getting by.

But men's basketball coach Brad Jackson (12th year, 218-127) says focusing on three Cs can be the foundation of success for the Vikings this season.

Those Cs aren't grades, of course. They're things Jackson wants his team to develop — concentration, confidence, and consistency.

"Those things are really important for us," said Jackson. "Our players need to concentrate on playing as a team and recognizing our abilities, the things we do well. If they do that, they'll gain confidence in each other and in themselves."

Jackson is bringing that message home to a very different squad than a year ago. Only one starter returns from last year's 17-13 team that reached the semifinals of the Pacific Northwest Athletic Conference playoffs. However, four other players who saw significant time are also back.

The women's team, which was 26-7 last year and won the Pacific Northwest Athletic Conference championship, has a number of key players back, including seven returning letter winners from last year.

The Lady Vikings were ranked No. 5 in the preseason national poll.

Returnee include forwards Shannon Grandilo, an honorable mention all-American in 1994-95, and April Saunders; guards Kristy Eggen and K.C. Mattingly who hit a school-record 87 3-pointers.

Coach Carmen Delfo, though, will be leading a new identity for the team, especially with the loss of guard Heidi Van Brocklin to a knee injury.

"We learned what it takes to get there," Delfo said of Western's first national appearance since 1989. "We've got a number of players back who were key in that process, yet it's very hard to repeat what we've done. We have to find our own identity."

Science building "unique"

Western is pioneering a "unique" way to teach America's students about science, math, and technology, says former astronaut George D. "Pinky" Nelson.

Calling science and technology literacy "extremely important," for students at any age, Nelson helped unveil the new, $15 million Science, Math and Technology Education building this fall.

The facility is outfitted with state-of-the-art computer, video and science tools and will be used primarily by science and education majors.

It is the university's most visible commitment to reforming the way elementary and high school students — and college students — learn science, math and technology.

"This building is an example of what should be going on all over the country," Nelson said during the Sept. 19 ceremony.

Teaching all kinds of science and technology subjects to students of all ages is "incredible and important," he told viewers in a KVOS-TV interview, "especially now, in a world that is getting more technological, more and more complicated."

"People have many different jobs in their lifetime, so it's just critical that our kids today gain a scientific literacy by the time they're through school."

Nelson is associate vice president for research at the University of Washington and interned at Western as an American Council on Education fellow.

The Vikings 15-game winning streak was broken Oct. 26 when they lost to archrival Central Washington, 34-20. Before that, Western was undefeated for the season; victorious in 22 of 26 contests; and held the school record of 15 consecutive regular season wins.

The facility is outfitted with state-of-the-art computer, video and science tools and will be used primarily by science and education majors.

It is the university's most visible commitment to reforming the way elementary and high school students — and college students — learn science, math and technology.

"This building is an example of what should be going on all over the country," Nelson said during the Sept. 19 ceremony.

Teaching all kinds of science and technology subjects to students of all ages is "incredible and important," he told viewers in a KVOS-TV interview, "especially now, in a world that is getting more technological, more and more complicated."

"People have many different jobs in their lifetime, so it's just critical that our kids today gain a scientific literacy by the time they're through school."

Nelson is associate vice president for research at the University of Washington and interned at Western as an American Council on Education fellow.

The facility is outfitted with state-of-the-art computer, video and science tools and will be used primarily by science and education majors.

It is the university's most visible commitment to reforming the way elementary and high school students — and college students — learn science, math and technology.

"This building is an example of what should be going on all over the country," Nelson said during the Sept. 19 ceremony.

Teaching all kinds of science and technology subjects to students of all ages is "incredible and important," he told viewers in a KVOS-TV interview, "especially now, in a world that is getting more technological, more and more complicated."

"People have many different jobs in their lifetime, so it's just critical that our kids today gain a scientific literacy by the time they're through school."

Nelson is associate vice president for research at the University of Washington and interned at Western as an American Council on Education fellow.
Investments in Excellence
Alumna donates island property to Shannon Point Marine Center

As young girls, Patricia L. Swenson and her sister, Margaret Green Siegley, both Western graduates, shared "the special joy" of the water tide pools and abundant marine life on their family retreat overlooking Mosquito Pass on San Juan Island.

Their father, Stephen H. Green, had purchased the land and a small log cabin, named Chez Nous by its French builder, in 1948.

As adults, they brought their husbands frequently to Chez Nous. The entire family thoroughly enjoyed the saltwater setting, long walks on the beach, trips in Green's skiff and the constant parade of marine traffic on the broad expanse of Haro Strait.

"Now I'm the only one of the family left. So had I couldn't bear to sell to just anybody. I wanted Chez Nous to be treasured, treated with loving care, and preserved always for those who follow. This is what Western will do."

Swenson has donated the treasured family property to Western for use as a Shannon Point Marine Center study site. Under her agreement with the university, the natural ecology of the area, which includes 200 feet of beach and tidal lands, is to be preserved.

Swenson earned advanced degrees, including her doctorate, at Columbia and New York universities. She made the gift to "her first university," Swenson said, because the treasures the mind-enriching experiences she had at Western.

Welcoming the property, appraised at $550,000, Shannon Point Director Stephen Sulkin said: "This biological reserve is a very valuable contribution to our capacity to educate students in the marine sciences and to support research on the local marine environment."

He noted the site has different habitat types and greater oceanic influences than Shannon Point's own beachfront on the Guemes Channel near Anacortes. "It will become increasingly difficult to find undeveloped study sites for marine research and teaching," Sulkin said. "Maintaining this site in its natural state will assure future generations of students and faculty of the opportunity to gain a better understanding of our valuable marine systems."

A Portland resident, Swenson managed KBPS AM and FM, radio stations licensed to the Portland public schools, and was a longtime member of the Board of Directors of National Public Radio. As public funding for public schools has declined in Oregon, she is securing grants and leading private fund-raising efforts to keep the stations operating.

Among her many programming achievements, she takes "special pride" in organizing community volunteers to read the Sunday "Oregonian" and other metropolitan newspapers on the air as a service to the visually impaired.

As an unofficial adviser to Western's FM station, KUGS, she provided staff and students with insights about the operation and licensing of school-related stations. Swenson has been an active volunteer for the Alumni Association for more than 20 years and is currently regional coordinator for the Portland/Vancouver area.

"My professional life has been in education and public service," Swenson said. "Chez Nous has been a family treasure. It is very satisfying that it will be preserved in a way that will serve education and the public good."

Record-setting campaign concludes with alumni appeals

Dec. 31 marks a significant milestone in the history of Western Washington University — the completion of the Campaign for Western. By that date, Western's first-ever comprehensive fund-raising campaign will have generated a record level of private support for campus programs.

The campaign began July 1, 1993 with a goal of raising $18 million for five key initiatives including teaching enrichment, scholarships, the arts, international programs and ongoing annual support. When completed, the campaign will have benefitted virtually every area of campus.

More than 16,000 alumni and friends have contributed to the campaign thus far. Alumni and friends who have not yet made their campaign commitment have until Dec. 31 to do so.

All gifts and pledges made during the campaign time period will count toward the campaign goal.

The campaign's final phase is currently under way with a goal of expanding Western's base of annual support. Alumni and friends can support the campaign by responding to direct mail appeals or when contacted by student callers during the Annual Fund Phorathon.
Multicultural thinking is a family tradition with alumnus Horst-Otto Gerberding (79), CEO and chairman of the Board of Dragoco Gerberding & Co. AG, the eighth largest fragrance and flavor manufacturer in the world.

Based in Holzminden, Germany, the firm — which posted sales of DM468 million for 1995 — was started in 1919 by his grandfather. In 1956, his father established a U.S. branch. Since Horst-Otto assumed leadership in 1981, the company has expanded into Asia, Latin America and India.

"Because we are a global company, it was important for me to spend some years in the United States," says Gerberding of his decision to come to Western to study. "The United States is an important market (18 percent of Dragoco's sales), so I wanted to know how Americans think and function."

Gerberding came to Western in 1975 and lived in the Fairhaven residence hall complex where he found students "very laid back." Living in the Pacific Northwest gave him a new perspective. "People have a different approach from Easterners," he says. "They are more concerned about nature and natural beauty. There's a relaxed atmosphere."

A business administration major, Gerberding met Bellingham businessman George Knowles through Rotary International. "It was the beginning of a lifelong friendship," says Knowles.

The two families visit each other every year or so, and Knowles was best man when Gerberding married. The Gerberdings now have two daughters and a son who range in age from 15 to 9.

He also maintains a friendship with economist Peter Harder, a professor in the College of Business and Economics.

Gerberding regards his time at Western as valuable; personally and professionally.

"If you're interested in business, it is a big advantage to spend time in the States to study. The teaching is more practical," he says, adding that understanding the American mentality is very important for the global business person. "America is the number one driving force in business," he notes. "If you know the way of life and thinking, it helps in dealing with American customers."

He believes study abroad helps American students understand how complicated the world outside of the United States can be. "The United States is a unique closed market ... with one currency. Business is becoming global so you have to deal with other nations' cultures," he says.

"The experience of living in another country is a big advantage, not only for doing business but also because you become more tolerant."

Awareness of cultural preferences in tastes, fragrances and cosmetics is critical to Dragoco's product development and marketing on a global scale.

"As one of the world's leading producers of fragrance compositions, flavors and cosmetic raw materials ... we belong to an industry which, like few others, is shaped by individual and cultural preferences. We respond to the cultural diversity of our target groups and the distinctive characteristics of our markets by maintaining regional centers throughout the world," he notes.

In the development of new fragrance creations, Dragoco uses a team of 10 fine fragrance artists working together between the company's creative centers in Paris and New Jersey.

Food flavors are carefully developed and tested to appeal to different cultural palates. Being on top of trends is essential.

So is agility. "We are in a unique position ... [with] all the facilities and resources of the industry leaders, but because of our size and private ownership we can react very quickly and we are very flexible in our approach," Gerberding says.

Taking Dragoco public while maintaining family control has been Gerberding's recent challenge. The company issued preferred stock in 1993. Plans call for listing on the German stock exchange by 1997, with the family of owners expected to retain the majority.

"With this system," he explains, "we are able to raise additional cash for future investments without losing control."
Class Notes

1958 - Peter J. Hallon is president of Division B, a significant supplier of water treatment products and services.

1960 - Gary Clesby retired from the White River School District. He taught music at White River High School, White River Middle School, Elk Ridge Elementary and acted as the district's music coordinator for a number of years. He had been with the district since 1967.

1962 - Dick Nichol is the head football coach at Mercer Island College. His son, Chris, is a wide receiver for the Vikings.

1965 - Bunny Cummins started a new job in tourism development with the Seattle-King County Convention and Visitors Bureau.

1966 - Arden Negrey was honored as "Teacher of the Year" by the Mt. Vernon students and the Rotary. He teaches five classes of American History and is the assistant golf coach at Mt. Vernon High School. He has been at Mt. Vernon High for 30 years.

1967 - James H. Dumont (and '69) has taught history and political science at the Col-ge of New Caledonia in Prince George, B.C.
In a career change, he has put the economic he learned from Dr. Michalowski to work in his new career with RE/MAX.

1968 - Gary Patterson has left retirement to accept a one-year contract as interim superintendent of the Oakes-Burns School District. ... Richard Hunt has been named interim principal of Rogers High School in Payette.
... Rich Tucker was named associ-deepan for student-funded programs at Spokane Falls Community College.

1969 - Howard Chemnack received the 1996 Distinguished Alumni Achievement Award from Edmonds Community College.

1971 - David B. Green was elected to vice president of real estate investments by the board of directors of Fisher Properties Inc.
He joined the company in 1992 as director of development. ... Jeff Allan Sawyer retired with 25 years of service from the Vancouver State Fairground traffic department.

1972 - Sean O’Meara has been working as a park ranger for 3 1/2 years in Pioneer Square at the Klondike Gold Rush National Historic Park. He has been a national park ranger for 6 years. ... Lynne M.
Galligan has joined the GE Research and Development Center as a technical research and admissions at Everett Community College.

1973 - Michael J. Dobbs has worked for the Pierce County Parks and Recreation Department for 10 years. ... Christine Kerlin has been named director of registration and admissions at Everett Community College.

1975 - Kathleen Sayce has been selected by the Villagio Alliance as science director. Sayce is active in several professional organizations, including the Ecological Society of America, the Oregon and Washinton Native Plant Societies and the Physiologiical Society of America.

1976 - Mary Brown-Mason has been named program manager of the Washington State Department of Transportation Disadvantaged Business Enterprises Support Services. She will manage two programs which provide technical assistance to disadvantaged businesses and contractors specializing in heavy highway construction.

1977 - Wayne R. Hale is chairman of the Primary Aluminum Producer Association in the United Kingdom and is on the board of directors of Antor Mimi, a governmental body that provides monetary grants and other assistance to small businesses. ... Dr.
Charlene Bergquist has been selected assos-deean of the Graduate College at Southwest Missouri State University. ... Rick Jones has been the superintendent at Ososca schools for four years.

1978 - Gary Benson, a corporate/editorial photographer, has had an image, "The Yellow House," chosen for a full-page national ad by Tony Stone Images, a stock picture agency in San Francisco.

1979 - Jennifer McGloren is a doctoral candidate in art at the University of Wash-nington.

1980 - William Hubner retired from the White River School District. He had been the assistant principal at White River High School since coming to the district in 1981. ... Richard V. Rice has been promoted with the Kellogg Co. to director of American stores sales.

1981 - The Rev. Mark Galbraith has acccepted a position as Lutheran campus pastor at Wisconsin State University. ... Tom calley has joined the insurance firm of Bell-Anderson in Bellevue.

1982 - Dave Wilson recently joined Cable
Plus Management Company of Bellevue, a privately-owned and operated telephone com-ications company as controller. He worked in public accounting for four years, and then for McCaw Cellular before joining Cable Plus.
... Nancy Walbeck, art editor and staff writer for The Ann Arbor News, has the first job she’s had from the Washington Press Association and a third-place national award for a series of stories on the death of Ruth Lake. ... Richet Metzgar working with Hospice in Hummelton, Ohio, offers instruction to help those in a position to help grieving children.

1983 - Sharon S. Card is a professor of nursing at Okanogan University College in Ketonwa, BC.

1984 - Steve Rupp has been appointed sports editor at the Bellingham Herald.

1985 - Kama Monaghan has been with Danco Home Furnishings as a sales associate for 10 years. ... Diane Blake was honored as the "Teacher of the Year" by students and the Burlington Rotary. She teaches English and Home Economics, is the English Department chairwoman, Burlington School District’s writing coach, activities director, Student Body advisor, Senior Class advisor, and Skagit Valley Interhigh advisor.

1986 - Kenneth Monaghan has been with Molen Co. of Seattle, providing technical sales of plastic material supplies to manufacturers, for the past two years.

1987 - Jon E. Elansares has been awarded a director of philosophy degree from the H.H. Uniter of Calgary. He lives in Bellingham where he is affiliated with W.U. Purnell in Associates. ... John Emingher has purchased 49 Degrees North Ski Area in Cheviot. ... Mary Beth Sternberg has been directing community and fringe theater in the Seattle area for the past five years. She is currently directing "Mr. Construction," "The Best Little Whore in the Bush" for the Bellingham Little Theater. In May she will direct "How to Succeed in Love at the Driftwood Players in Edmonds. ... Heidi Grani Murphy performed at the Bellingham Festival of Music. ... Charles Curtis Clarke received his master’s degree from Union Theological Seminary in Virginia.

1988 - The Rev. Jerry walkers returned to Bellingham to complete his pre-dental reunion with Central Lutheran Church’s pastoral interns. His home church is Zion Lutheran Church in Roundup, Mont. ... The Rev.
Jerry L. Chancellor has accepted the position of associate pastor at Central Lutheran Church in Jacksonville, Ore. ... Jeff Antzen is an associate attorney with the law office of Roger L. Ellingson in Blaine. He also teaches part-time in the paralegal department at Skagit Valley College. ... Michael Perry has joined the Everett office of Piper Jaffray Inc. as an investment executive.

1990 - Tricia (O’Donovan) Johnson is

---

WEDDINGS

1989 - Dorthos Hoffst-Hammant was married to Amnon Hammant in Nigeria. ... Roxane Marie James was married to Robert Reed Aug. 3.
1992 - Melinda Stebel and Eric Jacobson were married May 18 in Yakima. ... Amy Suzanne Gray and Jonathan Robert Wall were married Aug. 17.
1995 - Cynthia Anne Heim married Timothy Patrick Hall July 20.
1996 - Christine Kennedy and Michael Swartwood were married Aug. 10.

---

Tee tourney a benefit for scholarships

Some 107 golfers took to the links at Shuksan Golf Club Aug. for the second annual WWU Alumni Golf Classic.

Using a scramble format, the 27 foursomes tained the fairways, bunkers and greens to produce a spirited day of golf while showning loyalty to Western and raising money for the alumni scholarship program.

Overall winner of the tournament, as well as in the Open Division, was the team compoused of Blair Murray, Jon Sitkin, Craig Allen and Scott Renig — with a score of 59.

Second place in the Open Division went to David Moore, Lance Callaway, Kurt Harvill and Paul Mark P. Escandon with a 61. Third place, also with a 61, was the team of Ken Miller, Greg Forsell, Erin Sundeen and Perry Criggs.

First place in the Women’s Division went to the team of Beth Coulby, WWU President
Karen Morse, Robin Russell and Charmon
Dolan with a 76. Second place went to Bacci Camp, Marci Hanson, Bollen Saturday and Shelly Hymer with an 82.

In the Coed Division, the team of Carmen
Dello, Joe McArthur, Dan McPhee and Tim Nichols won first place with a 62. In 2nd place was Bob Cundee, Fred Mabbot, John Rahn and William Lefor. Third place in the Coed Division went to Lynda Goodrich, Steve Brummbell, Rob Smith and Steve Card.

The Alumni Association thanks all of this year’s participants, as well as the numerous local businesses who donated time and others who donated prizes for the event.

Plans are already underway for the third annual tournament, set for August 1997.
working for Telereps, Inc. in Issaquah in customer support. She and David Johnson (91) became parents to Jordan on Dec. 6, 1995. Jenene Kirby joined Whitman Community College as director of community education. She is responsible for coordinating WCC's non-credit and continuing education programs, including customized training, seminars, workshops and teleconferencing offerings.

1991 - Heidi Sakerson has been involved with the Bellingham Theater Guild for about 10 years, the guild's public relations director and also a volunteer performing volunteer performances of "Angry Housewives" to raise money to help cover her tuition to the California Institute of the Arts in Valencia where Sakerson will undertake a three-year master of fine arts program. David Johnson is working for the city of Tukwila as recreation coordinator.

1992 - Kimberly Ann Garcia received the American Association of Women Dentists' award and a Indian Chicano Clinic certificate for her involvement in helping the underprivileged. She also was recognized for helping people of the Dominican Republic. Radio newcomer Art Hughes joined the news staff at KPLU, covering education and children's issues.

1993 - Mark Jones was named to the ranks of Black Achievers at a banquet June 19, 1993, at the Washington Center. The YWCA Black Achievers program provides an opportunity for corporations to recognize outstanding African-American employees. Selection is based upon the achievements, exhibiting exemplary skills and achievement in their field and the desire to be a role model for young people. Left Corso has joined Lewis & Clark College as an assistant director of public relations. Corso, an award-winning public relations specialist, is the former public relations director for Clark & Clark from The Federal Way News where she was the city reporter. Lt. Douglas A. Zebrowski recently volunteered for the Starbase-Atlantis program while serving with the chief of Naval Education and Training in Pensacola, Fla. The program focuses on the thousands of fourth- through sixth-grade students who attend school during the summer months.

... Marc Knepper has received a Spanish Student Research Grant for a project entitled "Regulation of Lumen Cuticle Proteins LCP-14.6 by juvenile Hormone in the Tobacco Hornworm." Beth Stilker joined a bicycling tour from Kalispell, Mont., to Calgary, Alberta, sponsored by the American Lung Association. Participants traversed the Continental Divide three times over the course of 12 days. Rob Mahan will be the assistant principal at Liberty High School. Aaron Ross is a first-year teacher who will be a planning committee member there. He also owns an ice cream and espresso shop in La Conner. Ellen Hartstirn joined a 600-mile bicycling tour from Kalispell, Mont., to Calgary, Alberta, sponsored by the American Lung Association. Participants traversed the Continental Divide three times over the course of 12 days. Rob Mahan will be the assistant principal at Liberty High School. Aaron Ross is a first-year teacher who will be a planning committee member there. He also owns an ice cream and espresso shop in La Conner.

1994 - Deborah Wilbur is now the owner and operator of Kiddle Kampus Pre­school in Pullman, Wash. She spent the preceding two years substituting teaching in Whitman County and counseling during the summer at primary camps. Jason Vogel has opened Antonio's Formal Wear, a tuxedo store, in Tacoma. Kelli Polyak was recently promoted to director of programs at the Campus Boulevard Corp., in Philadel­phia. Her responsibilities with the nonprofit economic development corporation are to develop a program and raise $1 mil­lion for a Small Business Incubator and Ent­prise Center, to foster a diverse business mix in the Philadelphia region. Ellen "Missy" Beiser will join the college's School of Arts and Social Science as a math and social stud­ies teacher. Ted Sheppardson has joined the Center for Counseling & Health Re­sources, Inc. Sheila Bricker pedaled 6,000 miles through Europe earlier this year.

1995 - Brandon Miles joined Moss Adams as a staff accountant in the auditing department. Erik D. Nelson recently completed the Marine Corps' adjutant course. The adjutant is the commander's staff officer, responsible for personnel and legal administration. Eron Berg was ap­pointed to the La Conner Planning Commission. He is the youngest person serving as a planning commissioner there. He also owns an ice cream and espresso shop in La Conner. Ellen Hartstirn joined a 600-mile bicycling tour from Kalispell, Mont., to Calgary, Alberta, sponsored by the American Lung Association. Participants traversed the Continental Divide three times over the course of 12 days. Rob Mahan will be the assistant principal at Liberty High School. Aaron Ross is a first-year teacher who will be a planning committee member there. He also owns an ice cream and espresso shop in La Conner. "All About Life," to elementary students in the Spokane area. This is a 22-lesson, life­skills curriculum developed by the King County Department of Public Health to help young people learn how to care about themselves, their families and their commu­nity.

1996 - Trinity Parker has joined Bowley Enterprises of Issaquah and Stefan Buller was a summer intern at The Skagit Valley Herald, covering Sedro Woolley and general assign­ments. "Lappy" was perhaps best known as an innovator. His "straight line philosophy" for football and basketball in­fluenced a wide variety of coaches. And he was ahead of his time in the use of vitamins and the development of protective equipment for football.

Lappenbusch held bachelor's and master's degrees from the University of Washing­ton where he earned All-American honors in football as an offensive guard in 1932. He also attended the University of Puget Sound after graduating from Buckley High School in Auburn.

Tributes

Norm Bright, 86, master runner

Norman Bright (31), a tenacious runner who raced in marathons and other road races throughout his life, even after los­ing his eyesight in the 1960s, died Aug. 29 in Sea­attle. He was 86 and lived in Seattle.

A member of Western's Athletic Hall of Fame, Bright set the American record in the two-mile run (9:12.2) in 1955 and estab­lished numerous other age-group records.

At the time of his death, the retired school teacher still held the over-60 record for the 800 meters. He participated in the 1936 Olympic trials and placed 11th at the Boston Marath­on in 1944.

In the late 1970s, the Alumni As­sociation and track & field teams estab­lished the Norm Bright Road Run, which continued until 1989. Bright, in spite of being nearly totally blind, ran in every race with the aid of running partners, or guides.

Bright was also an avid mountain climber, and climbed all the major peaks in the United States as well as the Matterhorn in Italy.

Bright received a B.A. degree in education at Western where he was a member of the Amateur Athletic Union. He went on to earn a bachelor's degree in English from Stanford University in 1934 and a master's in counseling from Miami University in Ohio in 1960.

He taught school in Washington, California, Ohio and Alaska, and he served as a survival specialist during World War II.

Surviving are a daughter, two sisters and two grandsons.

Alumni

1939: Leila Arth Webster died July 22. She was 100.
1926: Ida C. Anderson died Sept. 22, at the age of 91.
1960: Rudy W. Schmidt died July 15.
1966: Kenneth Ferguson Fayer died Sept. 18.

1986: Ron Sloan died June 30.
1993: Robin Stonelake died in April.

Coach Charles Lappenbusch, 88

Charles F. Lappenbusch, the "winningest" football coach in Western Washington University history, and the coach for four other sports, died Sept. 28 in Emschwiller after a short illness. He was 88.

Lappenbusch coached football for 20 years at Western, posting an 81-62-15 record and leading the Vikings to their only undefeated, untied season in school history in 1938.

He came to Western in 1933 and remained on the fac­ulty in the physical education department until 1975. He served as athletic director from 1933 to 1962.

"Lappy" was perhaps best known as an innovator. His "straight line philosophy" for football and basketball in­fluenced a wide variety of coaches. And he was ahead of his time in the use of vitamins and the development of protective equipment for football.

Lappenbusch was inducted into the NAIA Hall of Fame in 1961 and was one of seven charter members of the Western Athletic Hall of Fame. He published a number of books, including Football-Straight Line Philosophy (Kill the "T"); Football-Straight Line Philosophy-Offense; and Basketball-Straight Line Defense.

Lappenbusch held bachelor's and master's degrees from the University of Wash­ington where he earned All-Americans honors in football as an offensive guard in 1932. He also attended the University of Puget Sound after graduating from Buckley High School in Auburn.

Faculty and Staff

Gene E. Yike, retired chair of the department of art and a professor of studio, art, painting and drawing from 1962 through 1993, died Sept. 10 in Bellingham. He was 68. Memorials may be made to the Western Gallery.

Former Viking Union custodian Mildred Johnson died Sept. 19 in Bellingham. She was 76.

This year's Alumni scholarship recipients, from left to right: Shannen Couch; Jessica Lason; Gabriel Galjarda; Brooke Buddick; and Veronica Cotta. Not pictured: Jennifer, Kay, Tream Pfham and Colleen Cрадdock.
Calendar

December

3  8 p.m., the Los Angeles Guitar Quartet at the PAC Concert Hall. (360) 650-6146
7  Recreation Alumni banquet. Also, football quarterfinals
14  Football semifinals
21  Football finals

January

9  San Diego Alumni dinner
10  Phoenix Alumni dinner
11  Son City Alumni dinner
17  "Big White" ski weekend, Kelowna, B.C. Call (800) 676-6885 by Dec. 13 for information and reservations.
27  Opening of Mel Chin's "Inescapable Histories" exhibit at the Western Gallery. Through Mar. 15
31  Olympia Alumni at Fishtail Ale Brewery. Also, 8 p.m., the St. Petersburg String Quartet plays at the PAC Concert Hall on campus. (360) 650-6146

February

1  Portland Alumni gathering, 5-7 p.m. at "Rock Bottom"
9  3 p.m. Montreal Danse takes center stage at the Mainstage, (360) 650-6146
21  8 p.m. New England's Vellinger String Quartet performs in the PAC Concert Hall, (360) 650-6146
22  Vancouver, B.C., Alumni dinner

March

1  8 p.m. Choroyaya Akademia fills the PAC Concert Hall with a cappella music, (360) 650-6146
5  7:30 p.m. Tony Stoppard's comedy of academic manners. "Arcadia," presented by the Department of Theatre Arts. The Mainstage through Mar. 9. (360) 650-6146
13  San Francisco Alumni dinner
14  Los Angeles Alumni dinner
15  Santa Barbara Alumni dinner
21  8 p.m. The Mummerschane dance troupe on their farewell tour on the PAC Mainstage. (360) 650-6146

April

16  Mark Plotkin, noted ethnobotanist, 5:30 p.m., PAC Mainstage. Also the traveling exhibit, "Rediscovering the Landscape of the Americas," opens in the Western Gallery. Through June 7
18  College of Business and Economics Alumni reception. Also, at 8 p.m., the Chamber Music Society of Lincoln Center performs works for piano, winds and soprano in the PAC Concert Hall, (360) 650-6146
19  Life member Alumni dinner cruise on Lake Washington
28  Wildlife researcher and educator Jane Goodall speaks at 5:30 p.m. on campus. Free tickets available at (360) 650-2829 after Jan. 6.

May

3  8 p.m. Peruvian guitarist Jorge Caballero makes his West Coast debut in the Concert Hall, (360) 650-6146
2-3  40-year and 50-year reunions for the classes of '47 and '57, on campus
14  The Department of Theatre Arts presents Chekov's "The Cherry Orchard" on the PAC Mainstage. Through May 18
16  Distinguished Alumni dinner on campus.

The Distinguished Lecture Series

The Distinguished Lecture Series brings two respected environmental researchers to campus in April. The series is titled, "Visions That Shape Our World."

Dr. Jane Goodall, the legendary primatologist who has studied chimpanzees in the wild for 35 years, is the author of six major books, countless articles and the recipient of numerous awards. She will speak at 5:30 p.m. Monday, April 28 in Carver Gym.

Dr. Mark Plotkin, an ethnobotanist whose research on the medical knowledge of indigenous peoples of the Amazon rain forest has been featured in numerous television specials, will speak at 5:30 p.m. Wednesday, April 16 at the Performing Arts Center.

The lecture events are free, but tickets are required. Two tickets per person, per event will be available Jan. 6 at the Plaza Cashier or through the Cultural Affairs office.

Send a self-addressed, stamped envelope to Cultural Affairs, Mail Stop 9041, Western Washington University, Bellingham, Wash., 98225.

Turning Points Lecture Series

"WINNING ATTITUDES OF OLYMPIC ATHLETES"

Tuesday, Jan. 14
Sports psychologist and US Olympics consultant Ralph Vernaccia shares his research and observations on the key mental attributes that enable elite athletes to excel in national and international competitions.

"THE 2.5 PERCENT SOLUTION"

Tuesday, Feb. 11
Violet M. Malone, a motivational speaker and faculty member of the Woodring College of Education, talks about the small percentage of people who adapt to and adopt innovations well before their time.

"WHEN FEAR TAKES OVER THE NATURE, CONSEQUENCES AND TREATMENT OF MEDICALLY-RELATED PHOBIA"

Tuesday, April 8

International acclaimed researcher and Psychologist Professor Ronald Kleinknecht discusses phobia that prevent people from seeking medical diagnostic and treatment procedures such as injections and blood draws.

"VERBALIS, VOCALIS & VERBALES: THE 3Vs FOR MORE EFFECTIVE COMMUNICATION"

Tuesday, May 6

Robert Keiper, originator and instructor of the "Teacher as Actor" class at Western gives a multimedia presentation, focusing on the verbal and nonverbal communication skills and techniques applicable to "as many actors as it is possible to teach an entire class of students.

Lectures are free and will be held at 5:30 p.m. in Old Main Theatre. Parking is available in lots 17G and 31G, behind the Ross Engineering Technology building on East College Way.

For athletic events, call (360) 676-6885.
For lecture events, call (360) 650-6146.
For further information, call (360) 650-3963.

Lecture Series tickets available Jan. 6 at the Plaza Cashier or through the Cultural Affairs office.

All lectures are free, but tickets are required. Two tickets per person, per event will be available Jan. 6 at the Plaza Cashier or through the Cultural Affairs office.

Send a self-addressed, stamped envelope to Cultural Affairs, Mail Stop 9041, Western Washington University, Bellingham, Wash., 98225.

"Non-Profit Organization
U.S. Postage Paid
Permit 186
Bellingham, WA 98225"