First Person Passionate

Writing about Fly Fishing

with speaker

Seth Norman
Pulitzer-nominated author

February 3
4:00-5:30pm
Special Collections
(6th floor Wilson Library)

Fly fishers have been consummate readers for centuries – people of like mind who are fascinated by art, craft, wildness, and ideas. Their literacy opens opportunities for authors to write essays, short-stories, novels, and magazine/journal articles. In his presentation, Pulitzer-nominated author Seth Norman will discuss the art and craft of writing about fly fishing.

Perhaps best known for writing about fly-fishing, Norman has been published in all the national magazines dedicated to the sport, along with Outdoor Life, Field & Stream, and Gray’s Sporting Journal. Norman is also a recipient of the Travers Award and the Roderick Haig-Brown Award, and has authored several books.

Heritage Resources is a division of Western Libraries which includes Special Collections, the University Archives & Records Management, and the Center for Pacific Northwest Studies. Together the three programs provide for responsible stewardship of unique and archival materials in support of teaching, learning, and research.

For disability accommodations, please contact (360) 650-3097