Expanding on his recent master’s thesis, veteran Seattle Times reporter and adjunct WWU journalism instructor Ron Judd will discuss the successful 1930s ‘Red Scare’ political campaign to remove former Western Washington College of Education President Charles H. Fisher from office. Judd’s study, based on archival research conducted in the collections of Heritage Resources, explores Fisher’s ousting in the context of local and national anti-communist, “super-patriot” political trends, which placed Fisher squarely in the crossfire of a prolonged, bitter political war between New Deal liberals and old-guard conservatives in Bellingham. Sponsored by Heritage Resources.

TUESDAY MAY 5TH // 4:00–5:30 PM
WWU // WILSON LIBRARY READING ROOM

Heritage Resources is a division of Western Libraries which includes Special Collections, the University Archives & Records Management, and the Center for Pacific Northwest Studies. Together the three programs provide for responsible stewardship of unique and archival materials in support of teaching, learning, and research.