Chapter 4

BIBLIOGRAPHIES, BY SUBJECT

Major Comprehensive Works

- 41 Sinor, Denis. Introduction à l'étude de l'Eurasie centrale. Wiesbaden: Otto Harrassowitz, 1963. 371 pp. Until now the only major bibliography of books and articles on all parts of Mongolia published in several European languages, including Russian. However, it excludes works in Mongolian as well as all East Asian languages and concentrates heavily on linguistic and historical studies to the exclusion of most scientific subjects. Still very useful but becoming rapidly dated.
- 42 Association for Asian Studies. Cumulative Bibliography of Asian Studies. Boston: G. K. Hall. Like Sinor's work, this bibliography covers much more than Mongolia. It also includes works on subjects other than linguistics and history but ignores works in Mongolian and East Asian languages and those published before World War II. Two sets of volumes have been published so far, the first set of four volumes covers 1941-1965, the second set of three volumes 1966-1970. This organization also sponsors an annual bibliography, arranged along the same lines, but its quality has been quite uneven as the editorship has been repeatedly changed during the past few years. The latest bibliography is for the year 1974.

Smaller Works

- 43 Menges, Karl H. "Recent publications in the field of Mongolian studies," Journal of the American Oriental Society 63 (1943), 17-24. Perhaps the first very brief general bibliography in any Western language, now quite outdated.
- 44 Knoepfmacher, Hugo. "Outer Mongolia: a selection of references," Bulletin of the New York Public Library 48 (1944), 791-801. The first bibliography exclusively on Northern Mongolia.
- 45 The Mongolias: Handbook of Selected Reference Material. No place or publisher, April 22, 1949. Stenciled, no pagination. Poor coverage, numerous errors and needless duplication of entries. A copy is in the Library of Congress (Z 3107 M7 M6). To be shunned.
- 46 Chang Chih-yi. "A bibliography of books and articles on Mongolia," Journal of the Royal Central Asian Society 37 (1950), 186-201, 298-330. Reprinted separately, London?, 1951?, 49 pp. Lists only works in Chinese, Japanese, and Russian and describes contents, some quite extensively.

- 47 Miller, Robert J. "A selective survey of literature on Mongolia," American Political Science Review 46 (1952), 849-866. Divided into sections for bibliographies, history, international relations, "Mongols qua Mongols" (a catch-all category), and Chinese and Japanese studies.
- 48 "Bibliography of works cited in sociological, political, and economic sections," in Mongolian People's Republic (1956), 438-461 (sociological), 663-674 (political), and 999-1016 (economic). Sketchy, uneven, and wholly unannotated sections of a handbook produced at the University of Washington for the Human Relations Area Files (see Chapter 1).
- 49 Bibliography of the Mongolian People's Republic. Prepared by the Far Eastern and Russian Institute, University of Washington. New Haven: Human Relations Area Files, Inc., 1956. 101 pp. Lists mostly works in English, French, German, Russian with a few works in Mongolian, divided into sections on general subjects, economics, and linguistics. A final section lists works in Japanese, with citations only in transliteration. By the compiler's own admission, this is a hastily assembled list, with much repetition of works already cited in the handbook (see preceding entry). The only notable improvement over the bibliographical sections of the handbook is the section on Japanese works.
- 50 Mongolia Society. "Bibliography on Mongolia." A regular feature of publications by this society from 1962 to 1973. Compiled chiefly by John R. Krueger, this almost annual bibliography was quite useful and it is regrettable that the Mongolia Society decided to drop it. Mongolia Society Newsletter 2 (1963), 36-44; 3 (1964), 49-58; Mongolia Society Bulletin 5 (1966), 32-47; 6 (1967), 83-84, 95; 7 (1968), 85-88; 8 (1969), 90-95; 9:2 (1970), 101-107; 10:2 (1971), 75-82; 12 (1973), 110-116.
- 51 Rupen, Robert A. Mongols of the Twentieth Century. Part 2: Bibliography. Bloomington, Indiana, 1964. 167 pp. (Uralic and Altaic Series, no. 37: 2). Geared to the text in Part 1 of this work (see entry 2053), this bibliography lists books, articles and other materials mostly in Russian, some in Mongolian and West European languages but nothing in any East Asian language.

Mongolian Publications

- 56 Mongolia Society. "The Translation on Mongolia series of the United States Joint Publications Research Service." A third very helpful bibliographical aid, largely done by John R. Krueger. Again, its termination in 1973 is most regrettable. Mongolia Society Newsletter 2 (1963), 45-56; 3 (1964), 16-19, 59-62; Mongolia Society Bulletin 4 (1965), 21-25, 51-57; 5 (1966), 48-57; 6 (1967), 34-36, 76-82; 7 (1968), 41-45, 76-84; 8 (1969), 67-89; 9:2 (1970), 108-115; 10:1 (1971), 100-104; 10:2 (1971), 83-90; 11:2 (1972), 81-91; 12 (1973), 117-119.
